Manila Nov. 3 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's name was brought directly into testimony today for the first time in his week-long trial on war crimes charges—and by a Japanese witness.

Fermin Miyasaki former interpreter at the Japanese military police headquarters, told the U. S. Military commission hearing the accusations that Yamashita commended his club-wielding police for their "fine work."

The witness said that Yamashita's commendation was read during ceremonies at the south Manila Japanese military police headquarters last December.

Berated by Witness

Yamashita praised his police for their fine work in the suppression and arrest of Filipino guerrillas in Manila and immediate vicinity, Miyasaki said.

The witness testified that he saw at least 400 civilians come through the police headquarters. Most of them were given the third-degree and at least 50 were beaten and 30 subjected to the water treatment.

The Japanese general was subjected to a hysterical tongue-lashing by a 17-year-old Filipino, who had related how blood-mad Japanese shot or beheaded more than 400 civilians in Manila Feb. 10, while American liberating troops were forcing the invaders into a last stand in the city.

Yamashita Unmoved

"You ought to be hanged and cut into little pieces," screamed Julieta Milanes, pointing to Yamashita, her cries throwing the hearing into momentary disorder. The Japanese general sat unmoved, as usual.

After her outburst the commission requested an attendant to escort Miss Milanes outside for a moment while she regained her composure.

During her testimony she clutched a frayed notebook which contained the names of many of her neighbors and friends whom she said were killed by the Japanese.

W. R. FORSYTHE NOW ON HONSHU

(Special to The Times)

The 27th Infantry Division with the Eighth Army near Tokyo—Cpl. William R. Forsythe of Company H, 105 Infantry Regiment has landed on Honshu with the 27th Infantry Division, the first AGF unit to travel by air into Japan proper.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forsythe of Orrtanna, Forsythe was among the first doughboys to set foot on Honshu island to start the Allied occupation of the four main islands in the Japanese empire. The 27th Division initially occupied an area near Tokyo and Yokohama.

Recently promoted to corporal, Forsythe saw action with the 27th on Okinawa before taking off for Honshu. Corporal Forsythe has been awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received in action. A fruit grower in civilian life, he attended Cashtown Consolidated school.

A veteran of 16 months overseas he entered the army on February 1, 1943. He has served on New Caledonia, New Hebrides, Guam, Saipan and Okinawa. Corporal Forsythe served 15 months with the 86th Infantry Division in the U. S. He was with them on maneuvers in Texas and Louisiana in 1943 and 1944, before being ordered overseas.

Forsythe now serves as a squad leader of an 81-mm. mortar squad of the 105th Infantry Regiment.

OCTOBER WAS WARM AND DRY

Little more than a half inch of rain fell here during the month of October, a shortage of 2.79 inches for the 31-day period, official records of Dr. Henry Stewart, local observer, disclosed Thursday. The October rainfall totalled only .53 inches here.

Twenty-one October days were clear, five partly cloudy and only five cloudy, his records show. The "heaviest" rain of the month occurred on October 9 when 15 inches was measured.

October was abnormally warm, also, the records show with a high of 80 degrees being reached on the 19th. The low reading for the month was 29 degrees on the 16th. The month's average temperature was 54.5 degrees, a degree and a half above normal.

Doctor Stewart noted killing frosts on October 4, 10, 11, 15, 16 and 28.

EXPECT LIGHT VOTE TUESDAY AT ELECTION

Adams countians will go to the polls next Tuesday in the first peace-time election in four years—but if political observers are correct as many eligible voters in the county will stay home.

Lack of interest in the state judicial contests and the fact that there are contests for only two first-rate county offices is given as the chief reason for the expected light vote. Four proposed amendments to the state constitution also have failed to arouse sufficient controversy to attract much attention from the general public.

Judge W. C. Sheely has both Democratic and Republican nominations for another 10-year term as president judge and is expected to poll a good-sized complimentary vote. A Dale Knouse is unopposed for re-election as associate judge, having won the nominations of both major parties in the June primaries.

Races For Clerk, Treasurer

The only important county contests are for the county treasurer-ship from which John W. Brehm retires at the end of the year and for clerk of the courts.

In the race for county treasurer are Chester E. Mehling, Gettysburg Democrat, and Donald C. Stallsmith, Gettysburg Republican.

Bernard Brashears, New Oxford Democrat and a veteran of Pacific duty with the Marines in World War II, and Mrs. Emma E. Sheffer, Gettysburg Republican, are contending for the clerkship. Mrs. Sheffer is serving out a two-year appointive term as the successor to her husband, the late Howard W. Sheffer, who died in his first year in office. Mrs. Sheffer now is asking election for a full four-year term.

The only other county office is that of jury commissioner. Voters may choose between Edgar A. Wolfe, Littlestown Democrat, and Mervin I. Rice, Bendersville Republican.

Local Offices To Be Filled

Boroughs and townships will name tax collectors, auditors, assessors, school directors, burgesses, councilmen and road supervisors and in some instances justices of the peace. Election board officials also will be elected.

In some voting districts the local fights for borough, ward or township offices promise to draw more voters to the polls than the county and state contests.

With other Pennsylvania voters, Adams countians will cast ballots for two judges of the Superior Court. A. Marshall Thompson and John Morgan Davis are the Democratic nominees. John C. Arnold and W. Heber Dithrich are the nominees of the Republican and American Labor parties. The prohibition candidates are Charles Palmer and C. Wilfred Conard.

Four Amendments

The four amendments up for decision will appear on the ballots in this form:

No. 1-A: "Shall the State Constitution be amended by adding Section eighteen to Article nine, requiring that revenues from taxes and license fees on gasoline, motor fuels, motor vehicles and operators, and other products used in motor transportation, shall be used solely for

PORK SUPPLY IS BETTER AT MART

There was more pork at the Farmers' Market this morning than at any time so far this fall but the supply remained so far below demand that few who had not placed advance orders were able to buy the freshly butchered meat.

Scraple sold for 18 cents a pound and two pounds for 35 cents; sausage, 42 cents; sirloin, 50 cents; lard, 18 cents; backbon, 28 cents; ribs, 25 cents, and pudding, 35 cents a pound.

Orders were being taken for turkeys for Thanksgiving delivery at 42 cents a pound, live weight. Dressed ducks were selling at 50 cents a pound and dressed chickens were 60 cents per pound. Pullet eggs were 50 cents a dozen and regulars, 62 cents.

Potato prices sagged to $2 a bushel for a new low. Sweet potatoes were $2.50 a bushel and turnips 15 cents a box. Butter could be had for 50 cents a pound. Home-baked pies were 35 and 15 cents. The apple supply was light with Yorks bringing as much as $4.50 a bushel. The Stayman price is $5 a bushel but nobody offered them in that quantity. Most other varieties were $3.50 a bushel.

CLINIC ON MONDAY

The regular chest clinic will be held at the Warner hospital Monday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock instead of Tuesday, it was announced today by Dr. C. G. Crist.

Historians To Hear Local Reminiscences

Dr. Henry Stewart, president of the Adams County Historical society, will continue his presentation of his "Reminiscences of Early Gettysburg," which he began last month, at the November meeting to be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the court house. A brief business session will precede the program.

Many phases of Gettysburg life of the later nineteenth century not covered by the October program will be recalled for the local historians by Doctor Stewart from his own recollections of those days and from authenticated facts he has collected about the same or preceding periods.

NEW LIBRARIAN GIVES BOARD FIRST REPORT

The first report of Miss Kathryn Oiler, Adams county librarian, was presented to the library association's board of directors at its November meeting at the library Friday evening showing more than 2,800 volumes already on hand.

She told of the success of the Book Week Drive conducted last month and said the quality of the books received was "very good." Miss Oiler reported also on the progress already made in preparing the library quarters for the use of the public by January 1 when the county library expects to go into operation.

She described plans for the arrangement of books, shelves and stacks and said that when all the equipment is in place there will be space for about 8,000 volumes although the library actually will be able to handle about twice that number of volumes in constant circulation.

Approve Budgets

Miss Oiler also told the board that the time has come for volunteer help at the library. She told of plans for observance of National Book Week in the county and said efforts are being made to secure additional library furniture and equipment through Surplus Properties.

Mrs. E. S. Lewars as chairman of the budget committee presented a budget for the remainder of this year and a proposed budget for 1946 which will be subject to revision and final adoption by the new board of directors next month. Chief receipt items anticipated are $3,500 from the county and $2,500 from the state while these principal expense items were listed: Librarian's salary, $2,200; assistant's salary, $1,400, bookmobile, $1,500; new books, $1,200, and library maintenance, $960.

Miss Oiler will continue to work with a standing committee in search of a trained and qualified assistant librarian which it is hoped will be available by January 1.

To Choose Director

Mrs. Lester O. Johnson, reporting for the constitution and by-laws committee, read proposed minor changes in the constitution and simplification of by-laws provisions which will be submitted to the annual meeting of the association on November 27.

Thanksgiving and Christmas were listed as holidays for the county librarian. The 1946 calendar was left up to the new board of directors.

Principal item of business at the membership meeting on November 27 will be the election of directors to succeed those whose terms expire and those named to succeed resigned members.

War Fund Total Reaches $4,460

GETS MEDAL FOR WORK IN BRAZIL

Mrs. Simon Redding, 58 Stevens street, received word Thursday that her daughter, Mrs. M. Solomon, the former Miss Lillian E. Redding, had been awarded a medal for meritorious civilian service overseas.

The citation reads:

"Miss Lillian E. Redding, clerk-stenographer, was transferred from the Miami Engineer District in June, 1943, and has served continuously in this theater since that date.

"She has served in various administrative capacities, including head of the message center in both the Recife and Rio offices, Brazil, for 15 months, control section, Recife office for seven months, and has handled the accounts and other administrative work for the Mess and Billeting office, U. S. Engineer area, for the past six months. During the last 12 months it was necessary to assign her again on temporary duty to the Rio office for a brief period of work requiring special ability.

"In each of her varied assignments Miss Redding has displayed excellent judgement in the performance of her official duties. The quality of her work has been above average and highly satisfactory at all times. No task was too difficult for her and her unusual ability to solve the most complex problems together with her eagerness to learn new work methods were of inestimable value to those under whom she served. Her untiring efforts and her never-say-die spirit, in the face of adversity, coupled with her congeniality and ability to work in close harmony with her co-workers contributed materially to the success of the Engineer mission in South America."

Mrs. Solomon and her husband, a lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Army, expect to arrive here from Brazil within the next few weeks.

MISS ALBERT IS SPEAKER AT DAR MEETING

A large attendance heard Miss Edna Albert, York Springs writer, speak at the November meeting of the Gettysburg chapter of the DAR Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Kermit Herter, Howard street.

Miss Albert, who was introduced by Miss Alice Black, told about writing her book, "A Little Pilgrim to Penn's Woods," which is used in many schools as supplementary reading in colonial history. Although the book is considered fiction, it is based upon the history of the Laurence Albert family that came from Germany to Pennsylvania in 1754. The story is descriptive of the journey of "Selinda" from her German home to her new home in Penn's Woods near Lower Merion church and her experiences in the wilderness.

Miss Albert gave intimate glimpses into the gathering of material for her book and displayed the original ship list of passengers, the German equivalent of a passport for the Albert family, and other well-preserved family documents.

MAIN PROBLEM IS END OF WAR SAYS SPEAKER

"The world will either come to peace, or go to pieces," Assemblyman Orlo M. Brees, Endicott, N. Y. member of the New York state legislature, declared Friday night in an address in St. James Lutheran church to the teachers and educators of Adams county.

"Humanity today is faced with many important problems—problems in social relations, problems in economics, problems in government and problems in religion," the speaker declared. "But there is one problem whose ramifications enter into all these fields and which outshadows in importance all of the other problems combined. That problem is the elimination of war and the permanent establishment of peace."

NEW TAX CUTS FREE MILLIONS FROM PAYMENT ON '46 INCOME

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—Here are things to remember about—and a way to figure out—the reduction in your income tax which Congress just okayed.

It means a cut in your income tax in 1946, starting January 1. It has nothing to do with—and means no cut in—your 1945 taxes.

All taxpayers will benefit from the cut. About 12 million of them paying taxes in 1945 won't have to pay any in 1946. They're the lowest income people.

Most people—because most people make under $5,000 a year—won't have to worry about figuring out the new tax.

Employers regularly withhold—by deductions from the paycheck—the full tax on employees making up to $5,000 a year.

They've done that in 1945. They'll do it in 1946. They do it by tables given them by the government. The government will give them new tables for 1946.

The 1946 reduction does three things: gives a taxpayer the same number of normal tax and surtax exemptions; knocks three per cent off each surtax rate; and then, after all this, knocks five per cent off the total tax.

How It Works
Take an example. John Jones, married, one child, has an income of $2,400 in 1945 and will have the same in 1946. See what happens to him in 1946 when he figures his tax.

From total income of $2,400, deduct 10 per cent ($240) for allowable expenses. That leaves him a net income of $2,160. From that he deducts $1,500—A $500 exemption each for himself, wife and child—and gets a surtax net income of $660.

He applies the 20 per cent surtax (it's 20 per cent because his taxable income is under $2,000) and finds his surtax is $132. Now he turns to his normal tax.

From that net income of $2,160 he deducts only a $500 exemption for himself, but no exemption for his wife and child. This leaves him a normal tax net income of $1,660.

To that $1,660 he applies the normal three per cent tax and—his normal tax is $49.80. He adds the normal tax, $49.80, to the surtax, $132, and finds his total tax is $181.80. That's his 1945 tax.

See how it works in 1946. Jones makes the same 10 per cent deduction for allowable expenses from his gross income of $2,400 leaving a net income of $2,160, and takes the same $1,500 surtax exemptions for himself, wife and child and gets a surtax net income of $660.

Less Than 1945
In 1945 his surtax was 20 per cent. It's 17 per cent in 1946. He applies the 17 per cent to the $660 (surtax net income) and gets a surtax of $112.20. Now he figures his normal tax.

He takes his net income of $2,160—which is his $2,400 gross income less 10 per cent in allowable expenses—and deducts from it the same amount of exemptions, $1,500, he deducted from his surtax net income. (In 1945, remember, he would have been able to deduct only a $500 exemption for himself.) Thus he gets a normal tax net income of $660. To that he applies the normal three per cent tax.

This gives him a normal tax of $19.80. He adds this to his surtax, $112.20, and gets his total tax, $132. But he's not finished yet.

From this total tax of $132 he deducts ($6.60). This is a step he didn't take and wasn't allowed in 1945. He deducts then the $6.60 from the $132 and gets $125.40. That's the tax he has to pay in 1946.

Thus his 1946 tax is $56.40 less than in 1945. He finds this by subtracting his 1946 tax, $125.40, from his 1945 tax, $181.80.

19 Americans Die In Japan Last Month

Yokohama, Saturday, Nov. 3 (AP)—Nineteen American soldiers and a merchant seaman died last month on Honshu as the result of drinking poisoned liquor, the Eighth Army provost marshal reported today.

Ten others were poisoned, including one who became blind, but they will recover.

Five of the men were stricken in a cabaret while celebrating their final night in Japan before sailing home to be discharged.

The provost marshal said the liquor was obtained from bootleggers or from dealers who diluted it with methanol or tetraethyl lead.

Superfortresses Being Scrapped

Wichita, Kas., Nov. 3 (AP)—Electric blow torches are being turned on superfortresses marked for scrapping at Boeing aircraft plant number two on instructions which a plant official said "have come to the company through army channels."

"Surplus items and material of little value always are destroyed in aircraft plants when government contracts are terminated," said Maj. E. T. Cuttyback, second in command of army representatives at the plant.

Anti-Zionist Rioting Breaking Out Anew

Cairo, Nov. 3 (AP)—Anti-Zionist rioting broke out anew in Cairo today and police started mass arrests in an effort to prevent a repetition of the bloody fighting which yesterday cost six lives in Alexandria and left hundreds wounded in Cairo, Alexandria and other Egyptian cities.

Merchants began to shutter all shops as a body of rioters started to move toward the center of the city. The new flare-up came after Prime Minister Nokrashi Pasha had blamed the Balfour anniversary fighting yesterday upon "riff-raff" and predicted there would be no recurrence of mob violence.

Jewish shops in that section made no effort to reopen. Heavy police patrols protected them from looting.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:
For the past three years I have been receiving without fail your weekly Service Edition of The Times. In order to express a portion of my appreciation I am taking this opportunity to thank you with the greatest sincerity for serving us who have been in the service. Through your editions we were able to keep in contact with our friends as they moved to various parts of the world. Also, we were kept informed as to what was taking shape back home. I happen to be one of the very fortunate ones at the present. In a few days I will be leaving for a separation center.
Again thanking you so much for your services.
Respectfully yours,
LT. JAMES C. EBBERT.

STRIKE THREAT IN NEW ORLEANS

(By The Associated Press)
A 24-hour work stoppage of all AFL unions in the New Orleans area was threatened today as the union's reaction to the closing of three Higgins Industries plants by Boat Builder Andrew J. Higgins, Sr., following a strike.

William L. Donnels, publicity chairman of the New Orleans AFL Metal and Building Trades Councils said Higgins' offer to sell the plants to the union was a "smoke screen to cover something we don't know about now."

Donnels said the union would ask for an investigation of the shutdown by Congress or appropriate federal agencies and that failing, he said, the groups he represented were considering asking all AFL unions in the New Orleans area to stop work for 24 hours as a demonstration.

There was a second threat of further trouble along the country's labor front, a spread of the strike of 4,000 AFL employees of 6 Greyhound bus lines which has crippled service in 19 states east of the Mississippi. A union leader has predicted the strike would become nationwide. The number idle across the country by disputes, mostly over wages, was 268,600.

Week For Celebration Of Children's Books

WITH more than 400 new children's books scheduled for publication before Christmas in spite of wartime restrictions and paper quotas, publishers' announcements mark the tremendous increase of interest in books for boys and girls which will be focussed on the national celebration of Children's Book Week, November 11-17. The theme of this year's Book Week, "United Through Books," is also reflected in the great number of books on other peoples and other countries in the publishers' fall announcements.

Libraries, schools, bookstores, and civic groups all over the country will work during this week to bring children's books and their importance to the attention of their communities. The twenty-four national organizations cooperating with the Children's Book Council to sponsor Children's Book Week believe that making more books available to more children today is one of the best ways of insuring an open-minded, thinking citizenry tomorrow. They are making every effort to have Book Week a gala celebration in every community.

National Headquarters of Book Week, at 62 W. 45th St., N. Y. C. 19, will provide a free manual of suggestions for Book Week on request. They will also supply, at cost prices, colored posters for display, book marks, and other Book Week aids.

Fear Missing Boy Has Been Kidnaped

Downville, Calif., Nov. 3 (AP)—Fear of kidnaping, voiced by wealthy grandparents, spurred the search today for blonde, blue-eyed three-year-old Dickie tum Suden, missing since Thursday morning from his parent's home in the rugged, Sierra Nevada Mother Lode country.

The child's maternal grandfather, A. L. Merritt, Sr., of Berkeley, Calif., said last night, "I am afraid of kidnaping—some screwball, maybe. I also fear that if he was kidnaped harm may have come to him."

Federal Bureau of Investigation headquarters in San Francisco answered queries about the case with a terse "no comment."

The boy disappeared while playing near his parents' home at Goodyear Bar, four miles south of here. His father, Joseph tum Suden, operates the nearby Brush Creek gold mine, owned by Merritt.

QUATRINS

Season's End
Fishing's done and tackle's eased.
In the attic gear is placed.
Welcome friends who ring the bell
Sit you down! I've tales to tell.

The Sword
Did you think the sword to be Weapon of supremacy?
Just forget it, war-like man!
By that notion fell Japan.

Time for Thankfulness
So swiftly years go winging by.
So brief the time 'twixt smile and sigh
And good and ill and joy and care,
One should give thanks when skies are fair.

Miracle
The age of miracles goes on Or we should never see
When winter's grip on earth is gone,
The talpae come to be.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

REGAIN THE FAITH

If every great machine and every mammoth enterprise, brought about by men's hands and brains, should melt away into the earth, still would there remain something greater than all this loss—and that would be the faith that built them and made them possible!

With faith and confidence restored in the world, most of the problems before it would be solved, for they would take care of themselves.

I went into a store one day, in a big city. It was one of the outstanding stores of that metropolis. I asked for a certain article. They were out of it, although they admitted that they had many calls for it and that it had sold well in the past. But they hesitated about reordering and restocking. Yet they hoped to stay in business!

If the leaders lose faith, or make no effort to regain it, who is to make the move for restoration?

Faith must be regained. Confidence must be restored. That's your job, my job—everybody's job. We must be the leaders; we must transfer our faith and confidence to those who now apparently lack so much.

Never before have men's souls been so sorely tested. With physical and material losses so staggering, touching the humbleness of the earth in such tragic manner, we with the Will to look the day squarely in the face have a responsibility that is wholly our own. We must regain the faith!

The faith that moves mountains, so to speak. The faith to recover from every thrust of the budgeon of fate, the faith to go on. This is what we must grasp and hold to. There is no other way.

Though much has been taken from our lives, more remains. We must not forget that. It's the same world, and though there is a dearth of understanding in the world, co-operation and sportsmanship of mind and heart can produce wonders! It must, or we perish.

Let us regain the most valuable asset in all life—the faith!

AND IT MAKES SCENTS!

Norton, Mass., (AP)—Mrs. Howard F. Woodward, president of the Animal Rescue League of Taunton, is convinced animals respond to human kindness. She spent 15 minutes taking a glass jar off the head of a skunk—with no after effects.

RED FACE

Chickasha, Okla., (AP)—That rosy glow on Sheriff De Arthur Wilson's face wasn't due to windburn. Thieves stole from in front of the county jail an impounded auto two highwaymen had used in a holdup near here.

Say What You Mean

It is surprising how much unnecessary trouble develops as a result of incorrect descriptions of things cars indulge in by way of noise and misbehavior. Most people call "after explosions" in the muffler backfires. A friend of mine asked his service man to rid the engine of backfiring and had to pay for unnecessary rebuilding of the carburetor. We sometimes speak of a knock in the engine when what we hear is nothing more than a tap. If you tell the repairer there's a miss in the engine he won't be inclined to start looking for a "roll" which is entirely different. "Loping" is something like a "roll," but is far removed from a skip. Usually it is a carburetor condition as opposed to valve or ignition conditions which are the basis for skips and misses.

Now That You're Traveling
Its so long since many motorists have taken to the open road in a big way they have forgotten that engines perform better in higher altitudes with a leaner mixture. Rarer air means that there must be a larger quantity of oxygen to get a normal mixture. Conversely a too lean mixture is bad on level, low ground because here the tendency is to drive faster. This means a higher operating temperature for the motor and the risk of burning the valves.

When you consider mixtures don't forget that high float level which might not be too much of a headache in normal driving, might easily cause very poor motor performance in higher altitudes and on steep hills. This is because a high level of fuel in the carburetor float bowl makes the mixture too rich all the time.

For Your Safety Kit

Next time you have occasion to put on a lot of mileage in the course of a day's run be sure to guard against the natural habit of driving faster as the day nears a close. There is a natural tendency to do this because of the fact that too often too much mileage is left for that period of the day when we are most weary. The effect is simply that we are doing our hardest work at the wheel when we should be taking it easiest. Moreover the same is true of most of the people who are at the wheel at that time of day. Such a combination can hardly be expected to make for safety. Watch this. Do your hardest driving in the morning when you are wide awake and not fatigued.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"If I were going to give apprentice mechanics a bit of schooling I am sure that I would harp on the subject of not jumping at conclusions. These cars are funny things. They can fool the best of us."

"I remember a fan that refused to run when I started up the engine. It certainly looked like its bearing had frozen, but when I loosened the belt a bit everything was normal again. Then there was the engine that ran out of oil completely, and knocked. You would bet your bottom dollar that it needed a complete bearing job, yet after we refilled it with oil everything was normal again. Many a motorist has pail for a complete ring job on the theory that the smoking exhaust meant a sloppy motor when all that was wrong was a loose spark plug. Even a worn plug gasket will encourage oil to suck up into the respective cylinder."

Hands On the Wheel

One of the amazing things about driving is the fact that on curves there is a spot when most drivers do not have a hold on the steering wheel. This is because they release their grip on the wheel in order to take a new position. In that interval a blowout or even a puncture might have very serious consequences even if the car is not moving. Skillful drivers are careful to make sure that in any change of positions they manage to keep one hand grasped on the wheel, and quite often they are able to handle the curve without changing positions.

Incidentally, don't be misled into thinking that you have a good hold on the wheel just because you have your fingers over the rim while the wheel slips through them. This isn't much of an improvement over not having hold of the wheel at all.

Switching No Help

Another thing to remember in traveling is that there is no point in alternating between the hand brake and the foot brake when descending steep hills. On most cars both controls operate through the same set of rear brake shoes, the foot pedal taking care of the front brakes in addition. Alternation can be done safely enough when the hand brake operates on the propeller. (Please Turn to Page 5)

Governor Urges Votes For GOP

Allentown, Pa., Nov. 3 (AP)—Though the coming November 6 elections are mainly local contests they "emphasize the fact that Americans cannot be indifferent to their entire governmental structure," says Governor Edward Martin.

The governor told Pennsylvanians in a radio address to "vote straight Republican" because "that party has given us good government, and its objective is a greater and better Pennsylvania."

Martin said the Republican party's "mission" in Pennsylvania included economic government, "the finest road system in the world," re-vamping mental and penal institutions, improved recreational areas and parks, economically located airports, clean streams, conservation of natural resources and port improvement.

"While Washington is following a policy of muddle and drift, of uncertainty and futility," he asserted,

Legion Membership Roundup Today

Harrisburg Nov. 3 (AP)—James P. Murray, commander of the Pennsylvania American Legion, announced today that proposals for new veterans hospitals and hospital beds in Pennsylvania will be reviewed today at the first state Legion membership roundup in several years.

Murray, who said he expects delegates to report the enrollment of at least 100,000 Legionnaires in the membership roundup, added he will also outline Legion policy.

KILLED IN GERMANY

Wiesbaden, Germany, Nov. 3 (AP)—United States army officials said today that 21 soldiers were killed late Thursday when a C-47 plane crashed near Karlsruhe. There were at least three survivors. The names of the casualties were not disclosed.

"We must always keep in mind that we must pay the bill."

Riding With Russell

ler shaft just behind the transmission, but it should be pointed out that this brake was not designed for actual stopping of the car, merely for holding.

Among the important things I have learned since putting my car back into more extensive touring is the fact that a lot of trouble can be spared by watching out for loosening of parts. It is a long time since many cars have taken a beating on the open road, and quite naturally there are many parts ready to come loose. Typical was my own experience when the cover of the oil filter came loose as I was taking a 200-mile trip recently. All of the oil escaped in a matter of minutes. A lot of trouble could have been averted by merely tightening up a few things before starting out. Filter tops are especially likely to give trouble because so many car owners have lapsed into the habit of not putting in new cartridges and assuming that it is quite in order to skip filtration for awhile.

Try To Remember

Much engine roughness comes from uneven compression. If there is a variation of more than 10 to 15 pounds between cylinders something should be done about it, for there will be neither smoothness nor efficiency.

Using a thin dime to check a spark plug's gap is much too sketchy a method for modern engines. For accuracy use a round feeler gauge and be sure to follow the factory's specifications. These will usually run from .025 to .040 inch.

The Clutch Talks Back

How these clutches can cut capers! They will chatter, grab, slip, drag and spin. And do you always know why?

Possibly it will help a little to realize that chatter usually means a warped clutch plate, slippage can be lack of free pedal movement, dragging can be due to grease on the clutch or to excessive free pedal movement, and spinning usually is due to heavy plates which are slow coming to rest.

What Others Are Asking

Q. For several days I have been unable to get the car into motion. I put the shift lever into the correct positions but the gears do not seem to mesh. What would cause this?—H. L. L.

A. The clutch is slipping badly. Q. Several times within the past two days the engine of my car has stalled without warning and has been difficult to get started again. Each time this happened the brakes seemed to drag. Everything was all right after I waited for the engine to get going again.—D. McB.

A. The dragging brakes are simply overheating the engine and causing vapor lock. Check for a weak brake shoe return spring or sticky brake shoes. Correcting the braking condition will solve the motor problem.

Q. I want to take off the vibration damper at the front end of the engine crankshaft. Are there any tricks to observe?—G. W. R.

A. For this job you would need a special puller. The type required is designed for this particular job, for in withdrawing the damper it is important that the unit be held together. Replacement of the damper also calls for use of the puller device.

Q. Do you advise using a flushing oil when draining the crankcase?—H. E. B.

A. Remember that in some engines as much as a quart of the old oil will remain in the lubricating system after the bulk of the oil has been drained off. If you use flushing oils some of this is certain to remain to dilute the new oil. Better flush with oil of the same quality and type as you plan to use in the engine.

cate to your fellow man your belief in God, your faith and confidence in your Creator, your desire to help others and that from these practices and belief will come the success that any man may seek, if he will add his own determination and will to win plus a lot of hard work," Mr. Funkhouser said.

Future Objectives

"I do not feel that I have accomplished the things I set out to do 35 years ago. I do not feel that I have contributed all I can to this life. I am willing to make up for my past failures by my efforts in the future," the guest of honor declared. He said that through the publication of a weekly newspaper he was striving to do those things that he had always believed in and wanted to accomplish in his life; that he wanted to help mold Christian character and "inspire others to do the right things in the right spirit of Christian living."

He declared that "every individual has a responsibility and he should measure up to that responsibility, that he must render some service to mankind to compensate for his privilege in believing in the Creator."

Mr. Funkhouser then introduced each member of his board of directors.

Host Is Toastmaster

S. F. Snyder of Gettysburg, a director of the Victor company, was the host at the dinner and acted as toastmaster. He said that churches and schools were important factors in the society of life.

He presented Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college, who spoke briefly of the part schools played in the life of every individual. He also stressed the important role industry was playing in the world of today. He said that life offered a challenge to industry and that Mr. Funkhouser's place in that challenge would be "well filled," and that "he will bring industry, in the years to come, a solid character and a higher standard in the world of faith." He felicitated Mr. Funkhouser upon his 57th birthday anniversary, which is observed today.

Rev. S. W. Herman, of Harrisburg, spoke briefly on the part the church plays in the life of today and cited

No. 2-A: "Shall Section one of Article fourteen of the Constitution be amended by making sheriffs eligible to succeed themselves?"

No. 3-A: "Shall Section fourteen of Article eight of the Constitution be amended by providing that district election boards shall be chosen at municipal elections for such terms as may be provided by law?"

No. 4-A: "Shall a new section be added to Article nine of the Constitution authorizing the Commonwealth by law to create debt and issue bonds to the amount of fifty million ($50,000,000) for the construction of public buildings, highways, drainage and sanitary systems, anti-stream pollution and flood control projects for purposes of reforestation, and for the rehabilitation and hospitalization of war veterans?"

Local Contests

In Gettysburg the principal contest is for the office of burgess between C. B. Dougherty, the Democratic nominee, and C. A. Heiges, a former burgess and the Republican standard bearer.

George T. Raffensperger and Charles S. Black are practically assured of election to the two positions becoming vacant on the school board. Both were nominated by both parties. Terms of Mr. Black and Arthur E. Hutchison expire, Hutchison did not seek re-election.

Robert P. Snyder is unopposed for re-election as justice of the peace and J. Herbert Weikert is in the same position in his campaign for another term as tax collector. S. Richard Elsenhart has no contest for re-election as a borough auditor.

In the first ward Milton Remmel and Betty M. Lawver are the candidates for assessor. In the second ward John L. Biesecker is unopposed for the same office and in the third ward Mrs. Floranna Hoke Fowler has been nominated by both parties for re-election.

No Council Contests

There are no contests for borough council although two names appear in the council block on second ward ballots. The term of L. D. Shealer expires and he won the Republican nomination for re-election. The name of Ray M. Hoffman appears as the Democratic candidate although he is already a member of council with two years to run on his present term. George D. March and Joseph D. Kendlehart are unopposed for re-election from the first and third wards, respectively.

The only contests for election board positions are between the following in Gettysburg: George D. March and Carl Oyler for inspector in the second precinct, first ward; John Bailey and D. D. Kendlehart for inspector in the second ward; and between Annie Cunningham and Edna Snyder for inspector in the third ward.

No local options are to be decided in this county this year.

Chapter 23

Anne danced with Wayne and Jimmy Foster, her heart as light as her feet. If she had needed gaiety she was certainly getting it for the orchestra was giving out with a rioting abandon of melody. She felt miles removed from the sobriety of yesterday, the haunting fears and uncertainty of the past weeks. She was young and assured and courageous tonight, secure in the knowledge that Wayne, himself, had made all plans for their wedding on the morrow. Beyond that she did not choose even to think.

During an interval when they were all back at the table together, Carol's eyes roving over the crowd lighted on a group in a distant corner.

"There's Madeline Carlton with her elderly husband," she said, adding, "I don't see how she could ever have jilted John Lowell for him, do you? Of course the old man has millions, but Major Lowell is the most romantic man I've ever known. I've always meant to set my cap for him. Why, good heavens, there he is!"

Anne's eyes followed her glance. Yes, there was John Lowell, seated at a table alone, his bronzed face a mask for his bitter thoughts. What Carol had said shocked her profoundly. Her eyes sought out Madeline Carlton.
She had never seen a more beautiful girl—tall, graceful, lovely with masses of dark hair and great dark eyes. Had John Lowell loved her deeply? And had Madeline helped to bring that cynical look into the Major's eyes? She was consumed with interest and curiosity.

A few moments later she was startled to see John making his way slowly toward them. Carol was in a high state of excitement.
"Look!" she cried, "John Lowell is coming this way. I wonder
—?"

He stopped by their table, spoke a few courteous words to the properly respectful and awe-inspired group. Then he said quietly, "You won't refuse me a dance, will you, Anne?" and she replied, "Of course not, John.
Why should I? You'll excuse me,
Wayne?"

She thought she heard Carol mutter, "Well, I'll be darned!"
and smiled at the surprise she left behind her.

He said grimly, "I suppose you've been told that both my lost loves are here tonight. Quite a coincidence isn't it?"

She looked up at him in exas-peration. "Don't talk like that, John Lowell! I'm going to be married tomorrow. I hoped you'd wish me happiness."

She felt him go rigid for a moment, then he drew her closer and his arms tightened about her hurtingly. "Suppose I should say you'd do nothing of the kind, Anne Winslow—for I am going to dance right out of this room with you in my arms and never let you go to marry that young scoundrel.
Anne, you can't do it! He doesn't! Then the blinding headlights of deserve you."

She was hot with anger.
Strange how this man could move her to the bitterest anger she had ever known. "You sound like an idiot!" she said bitingly,
"and if that's the way you talked to Madeline Carlton, I don't blame her for turning you down!"
She was sorry the moment she had said it, for she had so wanted their association to end on a note of friendship. She saw that ugly smile that had no mirth in it cross his lips.

"You say the nicest things, darling," he scoffed. "But I won't wish you luck and I won't wish you happiness. In fact, I hope you'll be very, very miserable and unhappy—"

"John take me back to my table. If you won't, I shall leave you and go alone."

"Oh, I'll be glad to take you back!" But he stopped beside a doorway, his emotions under control now, his voice low and utterly desolate. "Forgive me, Anne.
I don't know what makes me say those things. Can't we part friends?"

"I don't think so, John," she said miserably, for his words had cut deeply. "Maybe someday—but not now. Please remember me to your mother. Assure her of my continued love and concern for her."

"Thank you, Anne," he said and took her back to Wayne. A moment later he was limping away to disappear through the doorway.

Her mood of gaiety had been rudely shattered. John Lowell, she reflected, had the habit of doing that to her. She must put him completely out of her thoughts now and think only of Wayne.

They left the club shortly after that. Carol was in a reckless mood and insisted on driving Wayne's car. "You can sit in the back seat and make love to Anne," she suggested a bit wildly. Her eyes were smoldering with a greenish tinge and Anne was a little frightened when Wayne said, "Not a bad idea at that. Well, let's get going."

"Rain tomorrow," Jimmy said, sticking his head out the window to look at the sky.

"Oh, no, it mustn't," Anne cried.
"Why—what's special about tomorrow?" Carol wanted to know.
She was stepping on the accelerator in a perfect abandonment to speed. Her golden hair was loosened from its big knot and fell down over her shoulders. As they started to climb the valley hill with its dangerous curve at the top, she asked the question again. "Shall we tell her, Anne?"
Wayne asked.

"Why not? Why not tell the whole world?"

"We're going to be married tomorrow, so is must be a beautiful day!"

For a moment Carol's body arched tensely over the wheel as they reached the top of the hill.
Anne, you can't do it! He doesn't! Then the blinding headlights of
